Summary:

"These memories (or memories of memories: that was really closer to what they were) were like islands that were not really islands at all but only knobs of a single coral spine which happened to poke up above the waterline, not separate at all but one piece."

King, Stephen. It: A Novel (p. 571).

Memories (fanvid)

Author's Note:

This is the mashup vid between the two movies I've wanted to do since Chapter Two came out! I was trying to play with the blurring between past and present that is a big theme in the book. Hope you enjoy the vid! The song is "Goodbye" by Apparat, which is also the theme of the German Netflix TV show that also has a lot of interplay between past and present.
